Handout 6.1a Citing Sources

Citing Internet sources can be very tricky. You need to search for information on who wrote the site and when it was created. It is important to site all the sources you used to create a presentation because you need to give credit to the work you used to create your presentation.

The following information needs to be included in a citation:

Website creator (author)

Name of organization who created the website

Webpage or article title

Website title

Website URL

Date it was published

Date you looked at the information

Sample Citation for the Voices and Choices website:

Pericles "for the war". (2005). Retrieved Sep. 22, 2005, from Voices and Choices: Democracy in Ancient Greece Web site: <http://choices.teachingmatters.org>.
